McKay and Cox Captured After Manhunt in Darkness

75 OFFICIALS PARTICIPATED THIS MORNING

Chase Started After Holdup of Rockton Service Station

Hughie McKay, III, 26, of Polo, formerly of Dixon, and Eugene Cox, 19, of Rock Falls, who escaped from the state prison farm at Vandalia Sept. 9, and who outdistanced Night Marshall L. W. Cupp of Polo in a wild ride from Polo to Sterling Monday night, were captured early this morning near Seward, Winnebago county, after a man hunt in which about 75 Winnebago and Stephenson county deputy sheriffs, Rockford and Freeport city police and state police participated, and are now lodged safely in the Winnebago county jail.

The concerted hunt for the pair was organized shortly after midnight when it was reported two men had held up a filling station at Rockton, 10 miles north of Rockford, and had kidnapped the proprietor, Walter Buchanan, after robbing him of $22. As they left the station in the stolen Dodge car in which they had been traveling since their escape from Vandalia, they were followed by Buchanan's uncle, Fred Buchanan, and Peter Jecklin.

Pursuers Lost Car
McKay and Cox sped westward from Rockton on state route 75 and at one time their pursuers were close enough to exchange shots with them, but they lost the robbers' automobile near Durand, west of Rockton. Near route 20 and Pecatonica road two Winnebago county deputies lay in wait, but they were afraid to shoot for fear of hitting Buchanan who was still held captive.

Speeding into Pecatonica the robbers aroused the telephone operator and forced him to telephone to Rockford and summon a taxi-cab for them. In the meantime Stephenson county officers and the state police—including Edward Mahan of Dixon and Rex Flach of Amboy—converged on the scene.

Officers chased the pair to the forest preserve near Seward, where they freed Buchanan unharmed, abandoned their car and sought hiding in the woods. At about this time an Illinois Central freight train pulled into Seward, and quick-thinking officials hit upon a scheme which brought about the result they had hoped for.

Scheme Successful
The train was ordered to run slowly through the preserve, and as had been expected, McKay and Cox ran from cover and hopped aboard. At a highway crossing a short distance south of the preserve the train was stopped where a group of officers had congregated, and the robbers surrendered after one shot had been fired into an empty box car in which they had hoped to escape. On being searched Cox was found to be armed with a .32 calibre revolver.

Authorities stated that the pair would probably have escaped had they not stopped an unidentified motorist west of Rockton and attempted to rob him. The motorist threw his valuables into weeds bordering the highway, and the time McKay and Cox spent in searching for them was enough to permit the call to go out to Rockford, Freeport and state police. The robbers left the unidentified motorist unharmed after letting the air out of the tires of his automobile and tearing the ignition wires loose.

Face Several Charges
Whether they will be tried in Winnebago county for armed robbery and kidnapping, or will be returned to Vandalia, is being determined by proper authorities today. They will also be questioned concerning a $50 holdup of a service station west of Freeport early Tuesday morning.

The Lee county sheriff's office notified last week of McKay's escape from the Vandalia state farm with Cox, and learned of his later appearance at Nelson and Sublette, where he apparently remained for but a short time. The fugitives were reported to be driving a stolen car and according to the reports both were armed. McKay was said to have boasted that he planned to see his wife in

Only Victim

JOHN J. O'CONNOR

New York congressman and chairman of the powerful house rules committee, who yesterday became the first and only victim of President Roosevelt's purge campaign, when he lost his fight for renomination by Democratic voters, although he won the Republican designation. The president had suffered reversals in his purge efforts in South Carolina, Maryland and Georgia.

O'Connor, beaten in his own party by 553 votes, indicated he might challenge the Democratic vote on grounds of "dishonesty."

If he fails to upset Fay's majority by recount, O'Connor will enter the November election as an out-cast from the party which has sent him to congress every two years since 1923 and made him chairman of the House rules committee, most powerful legislative group in Washington. (Story on page 10).

ELEVEN DEAD IN FLOOD IN EAST; RAINS CONTINUE

New England States Today Feel Brunt of Heavy Downpour

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ruin spread through rich industrial and farming sections of Massachusetts and Connecticut today as drenching rains which have fallen for a week along the Atlantic seaboard concentrated in force on the New England states, causing hundreds of thousands of dollars damage.

Eleven lives had been lost in the flood waters of rivers and streams which have burst dams, washed out sections of highways and railroads, undermined houses and farm buildings and reached levels in places above the stages of the devastating 1936 floods.

Latest victim of the floods, reported today, was Mrs. Linda Woodis, 41, a nurse of North Brookfield, Mass., who was drowned when a car in which she was returning from a maternity case with a physician was caught in the wash of a breaking dam at Doane's Pond. The doctor was rescued.

Record Rainfall
Massachusetts State College at Amherst reported an all-time record rainfall of 12.49 inches for September. The old record was 12.34 inches in 1933. A total of ten inches fell since Saturday.

At East Hampton, Conn., workmen labored desperately to save a 50-foot dam holding back the waters of a pond. If the dam went, town officials said, the center of the town would be swept away.

Several families in North Haven were evacuated from their homes by rescue workers.

In Peterboro, N. H., fifty families were evacuated from meadow floor tenements as the Contoosook and Numanit rivers raced through the town. Farm buildings were pitched into both streams, business establishments in the main street were flooded, and two bridges destroyed.

Turging Massachusetts rivers neared 1936 flood levels. Half a dozen bridges had been carried away and industrial plants in Gardner, Athol and Southbridge, flooded by rising waters, were shut down.

Bridges, Dams, Road Go

Many bridges, dams and state highways were washed out in Connecticut where rainfall since Saturday was more than twice the normal precipitation for the entire month. The Connecticut river at Hartford was more than two feet above the flood stage of

SUGGESTS THAT FDR CALL MEET OF EUROPEANS

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Frank E. Gannett, Rochester publisher, suggested today that President Roosevelt invite heads of the European nations to confer in America in an attempt to solve "these alarming situations" in Europe.

"In spite of the unwillingness of America to become involved in European affairs," Gannett declared, "I believe this great nation is in a position to be of great service to humanity."

"If President Roosevelt should invite the real heads of the nations in Europe to a conference in America, in an atmosphere free from hate, prejudice and suspicion, x x x it is possible they might arrive at some sane solution of these alarming situations."

Gannett, who spoke at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon, recently returned from a trip to England, where he was the guest of Lord Beaverbrook, London publisher.

"People of England and France want peace," he said. "They realize what a war in Europe will mean. x x x And most people believe, too, that if there is another great European war, it will be difficult, if not impossible, even for the United States to keep out of it. x x x"

"It is not surprising, therefore, that England and France have been trying every way possible to avoid a war over the Czechoslovak situation. They would rather yield considerably to Hitler than to have a conflict at this time. x x x"

Defending Champion In Women's Golf Is In Third Round Now

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Estelle Lawson Page, defending champion from Chapel Hill, N. C., advanced to the third round of the women's national golf championship today with a 2 and 1 victory over Helen Waterhouse, young star from Warwick, R. I.

Miss Waterhouse made a great comeback after being three down through the 12th hole, but faltered when opportunities for squaring the battle came her way. She had birdies on the 13th and 14th holes to become only one down. She missed a four foot putt which would have given her the next hole, which was halved, and had an opportunity to square the match at the 16th, only to miss her third and fourth shots.

Mrs. Page was on the short 17th with her tee shot, with Miss Waterhouse trapped. The champion got an easy par, Miss Waterhouse sinking a 12 foot putt for a halve which ended the morning duel and sent Mrs. Page into an afternoon third round skirmish.

$25,300 Kiss

Waukegan, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—A kiss in a speeding car was the indirect cause of a judgment for $25,300 which faced Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ruff of Chicago today.

A verdict for that amount was returned by a jury in Circuit court last night in favor of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Grimm, the brother-in-law and sister of Mrs. Ruff. The Grimms suffered injuries when Ruff's car plunged into a ditch in Lake county on June 26, 1937.

Grimm testified that the car left the road at a 70 mile an hour clip immediately after Ruff leaned over and kissed his wife.

Police Hunt Other Killers of Official

Chicago, Sept. 21.—An admission of two men that they participated in the assassination of State Representative Albert J. Prignano three years ago sent police on a secretive hunt today for two others accused of plotting and carrying out the actual killing.

Prignano, who had great influence in the dispensing of Democratic patronage and funds in the "Bloody Twentieth" ward, was shot to death in front of his home Dec. 29, 1935, while his wife and son looked on.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced yesterday he had confessions from two men and that their identities would be withheld until two others named by them were found.

Two men were known to be held incommunicado at police headquarters. They were a Joliet penitentiary convict who found himself trapped after trying to talk his way out of a burglary charge, and a companion in burglary expeditions.

RAIL CONFERENCE COMPLICATED BY POSSIBLE STRIKE

FDR Asks Cooperation on Legislation to Aid The Industry

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Possibility of a nationwide railroad strike complicated today the efforts of railroad management and labor to fulfill President Roosevelt's request that they cooperate on legislation to aid the industry.

Representatives of both sides discussed their problems jointly with the chief executive yesterday.

Then they scheduled a meeting today to determine whether the threatened strike against a 15 per cent wage cut would interfere with their following Roosevelt's proposals.

After mediation efforts failed recently, the carriers decreed the wage cut for October 1. Railway labor is taking a vote to decide whether to strike. The result, to be announced next Monday, will affect about 900,000 workers.

President Roosevelt told reporters yesterday, however, he would appoint a commission to study the dispute. Under the national mediation act, the strike could not take place for 60 days after that body is selected.

(The commission would have 30 days to make its findings and recommendations. Labor and management would have an additional 30 days, described by government labor experts as a "cooling off" period, to study the report.)

F. D. R. Is Concerned

Roosevelt, concerned by the threats of war abroad and anxious to avert a rail tie-up at home, asked both rail executives and union leaders to co-operate in drafting recommendations for the next congress to help put the nation's transportation industry on a sound financial basis.

He spent two hours discussing many phases of the railroad situation, except the wage dispute, and then left the representatives alone in the cabinet room to talk it over while he held his regular press conference.

Some informed persons said the labor representatives felt they could not co-operate in the joint legislative program and fight the wage cut battle at the same time. The carrier representatives were reported unwilling to revise their position on the wage cut until they had consulted their fellow operators.

TRUCK TURNS ON SIDE TRYING TO AVOID COLLISION

Walter Trautman and 2 Iowa Drivers Figure In Local Mishap

Walter Trautman, 68, 1010 Highland avenue, narrowly escaped serious injury in an automobile wreck last evening about 11:30 at the corner of Hennepin avenue and Second street, and two Iowa truck drivers, escaped injury when their truck jack-knifed and overturned. Kenneth Pierce, 26, of Waterloo, Iowa, and Victor Davis, 28, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, were the drivers of a truck belonging to the McCoy Trucking Company of Waterloo.

The truck, a tractor trailer type, heavily loaded, was west bound on Second street. According to the report at the police station, Trautman was driving south on Hennepin avenue and did not observe the truck. Pierce who was at the wheel of the truck, turned to avoid striking the Trautman car and as he did so, the trailer jack-knifed and rolled over on its side as the tractor climbed the curbing on the southwest corner of the intersection, and crashed into a guy cable, supporting a heavy power line pole which carried several transmission lines. The impact snapped the pole off at the base and the charged wires fell on Hennepin avenue.

New Pole Necessary
Police summoned the line repair crew of the I. N. U. company who turned off the current and repaired the damage. It was necessary to set another pole and transfer the power lines this morning.

After the truck had turned south to avoid the head-on collision, the police report indicated that Trautman crashed into the rear of the trailer and his car was considerably damaged. The trailer was also damaged, but was righted by a wrecking crane and proceeded on its way without transferring the cargo. Fortunately the drivers of the two vehicles escaped injury.

Taxicabs bearing Czech army officers were applauded heartily by marchers and spectators. The line of demonstrators grew longer with each block and the crowds in the streets increased rapidly.

Police Alert

Reinforced Czechoslovak police lined the capital's thoroughfares alert for any signs of outbreaks of violence but there was no interference with the demonstrations.

The demonstration marked the first time in the crisis that the populace had given a mass, public expression of their feeling of solidarity behind the nation's army.

Fearing violence, owners of business establishments prepared to close iron gates and doors to protect their businesses from possible damage.

ACCEPT TERMS LAID DOWN BY DER FUEHRER

Will Hand Over Rich Sudeten Territory to Germany

Prague, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government announced officially at 7:25 P. M. (12:25 P. M. C. S. T.) today its acceptance of the British-French plan for meeting the peace terms of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler.

The decision came at the end of three days of fateful discussion of the proposals agreed upon by British and French leaders in London as the price for maintaining peace in Europe.

The news of the capitulation came to Czechoslovaks by radio broadcasts carried through loudspeakers in the crowded streets of Prague.

A communique was issued from the office of Premier Milan Hodza at the same time as the announcement was broadcast.

It said the proffered solution of the Czechoslovak-German dispute was accepted at the urgent representation of France and England.

Stratford-on-Avon, Eng., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, declared tonight that "the conviction is growing that continued retreat can only lead to everwidening confusion."

"The British people know that a stand must be made. They pray that it be not made too late."

ests of peace decided to make some sacrifice to avoid suffering and the loss of its whole existence."

Crowds on the streets were in an excited mood and the authorities were worried about the reaction of the Czechs to the definite news that the republic faced loss of considerable territory.

In the streets there were shouts of "rather war" and "we want a dictatorship."

A crowd estimated at more than 5,000 persons staged a noisy demonstration in the main thoroughfares of the capital.

They cried:

"Long live the army" "Long live Czechoslovakia."

Thousands of persons crowded into the entrances of buildings and in windows of hotels and business establishments to cheer the marchers.

Taxicabs bearing Czech army officers were applauded heartily by marchers and spectators.

The line of demonstrators grew longer with each block and the crowds in the streets increased rapidly.

SMITH DEFENDS AAA PROGRAM IN PEORIA ADDRESS

President of IAA Says It Is Thing That Prevents Demoralization

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, told a meeting of farm bureau leaders today that the one thing that stands in the way of complete demoralization of basic farm crop prices such as experienced in 1931 and 1933 is the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program.

"With its opportunities through crop loans and acreage adjustments to keep surpluses under control," Smith said, "this legislation has more influence today in preventing a return of 35 cent wheat, 15 cent corn, and $3 hogs than all other factors combined."

"If congress would suddenly repeal the AAA of 1933, call off commodity loans, destroy the announced plan for acreage adjustment of cotton, wheat and corn in the 1938-39 crop year, in my opinion you would see much more serious decline and demoralization of farm prices than we have thus far witnessed."

Smith said the sharp decline in prices of corn and wheat to present unsatisfactory levels is a natural result of not having an acreage adjustment program for these crops last year, coupled with failure of about 50 per cent of the corn producers to co-operate and make adjustments in 1938.

Assured of Compensation

"Even under present conditions," Smith observed, "co-operators are assured of being well compensated for their efforts through the 57 cent corn loan plus 10 cents per bushel adjustment payment which gives their 1938 crop a value of approximately 67 cents a bushel."

Smith deplored "efforts being made to inject partisan politics into the present farm program." He quoted statements of former President Coolidge, Ex-President Hoover, former Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, and the late Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, as well as present administration leaders, which he said supported acreage reduction as a means of securing reasonable prices for farm products.

Referring to the present AAA, Smith said no one should, or could successfully, deny that weaknesses or errors have developed in its administration. He urged that support be given corrective measures.

Needed Corrections

"I do not hesitate to mention some of the more important things that must be corrected," he asserted. "First, there was delay in the announcement of allotments and general regulations for 1938. I am sure this will not happen in 1939. In fact I will be greatly surprised if any farmer who wants to know, does not have his allotment and fully understand his opportunities for co-operation in 1939 previous to the first day of next year."

"Second, the inflexible principles upon which was determined individual farm allotments. Opinion is greatly divided as to what should be done. The position of your organization is to greatly minimize the use of history in the determination of such allotments and in its stead to use both the percentage of tillable acres and degree of fertility on the farm."

Smith, who heads the largest unit of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said organized farmers generally are vigorously opposed to unemployment relief and labor policies which encourage inopportune strikes and disorder.

"We condemn," he declared, government policies which give federal jobs and relief to able-bodied workmen who persist in refusing employment except at unreasonable wage scales or who strike for higher wages which private employers cannot afford to pay.

"Farmers oppose such unreasonable tendencies as we have witnessed in recent years involving sitdown strikes, confiscation of property and similar indefensible activities. Government policies which encourage or condone such activities will not receive approval of thinking farmers."

LEAGUE POWERS DENOUNCED BY SOVIET SPEAKER

France and England Capitulated to Aggressor Nations He Charges

Geneva, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Russia's foreign commissar, today accused France and Great Britain of capitulating to Adolf Hitler's demands and disclosed they had ignored Russia's offer of military help to protect Czechoslovakia.

The foreign commissar, in a scathing denunciation of League of Nations powers, said Russia stood ready to back up any collective action in defense of Czechoslovakia with arms and men.

In what he left unsaid, however, assembly delegates saw a statement that unless France fights for Czechoslovakia under the terms of the French-Czechoslovak agreement, Soviet Russia would do nothing to help Prague.

The speech led Czechoslovakia to consider an appeal to the league, even before a German attack which they feared would take place.

It gave open support for immediate appeal under article XI of the league covenant which, under the heading "any war or threat of war," says the league "shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual" to safeguard peace.

The Czechoslovaks, however, did not entertain much hope of effective league action so long as France and Britain maintain their present attitude.

Hope for Dissatisfaction.

Because Litvinoff's speech disclosed steps leading up to the present British-French plan, including Russia's offer of military support, Russians and Czechoslovaks hoped it would spread dissatisfaction with the proposal to the extent that the two governments might be forced to abandon it.

He accused Britain and France of avoiding a "problematic war today in return for a certain and large-scale war tomorrow."

Russia's spokesman told the League of Nations assembly that the price Britain and France were considering paying to prevent war over Czechoslovakia was "satisfying the appetites of insatiable aggressors by the destruction and mutilation of sovereign states."

He contended that the "League of Nations is strong enough to stop aggression by collective action." Declaring that "aggressor states" still are weaker than a possible block of peaceful states.

Strengthens Aggression

"The policy of nonresistance to evil and of humoring the aggressor which we are being recommended to adopt by opponents of league sanctions," he warned, "will have no other end but that of strengthening the forces of aggression."

"Then the moment may really arrive at which aggressors have grown so strong that the League of Nations, or what remains of it, will be unable to deal with them even should it desire to do so."

Addressing the League of Nations assembly, Russia's spokesman said that the price the two western democracies were considering paying to prevent war over Czechoslovakia was "satisfying the appetites of insatiable aggressors by the destruction and mutilation of sovereign states."

Litvinoff declared flatly:

Ready to Cooperate

"Our war department is ready immediately to participate in conference with representatives of the French and Czechoslovak war departments in order to discuss measures appropriate to the moment."

"Independently of this, we consider it desirable that the question be raised at the League of Nations if only as yet under article eleven, with the object of first mobilizing public opinion and secondly of ascertaining the position of other nations whose passive aid might be extremely valuable."

He said this Russian stand was framed and sent to the Czechoslovak government two days ago and to France a few days before the league of assembly began to deliberate on Sept. 12.

Litvinoff said that at that time his government added:

"We intend to fulfill our engagements under our treaty with Czechoslovakia and together with France to give assistance to Czechoslovakia by means open to us."

Washington, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The weather bureau ordered whole gale warnings hoisted today along the Atlantic coast north of Virginia Capes to Sandy Hook, N. J. The bureau said the tropical storm roaring up the coast was about 100 miles east of the Virginia Capes at 9 A. M. C. S. T., and was moving rapidly northward and slightly east of north.

The disturbance, the bureau said, "is attended by shifting gales over a wide area and by winds of whole gale force over a considerable area around center."

COUNTY W.C.T.U. WILL HONOR ITS FOUNDER TUES.

Few women in history have touched so many lives of service and excelled in all, as Frances E. Willard. A great educator, knowing human nature so well, she originated the honor system of self-government among college students, and today, advanced educators advocate this system as a reasonable and developing method of government.

A traveler she was, beyond the usual of those days. Not only in the world journey of two years—most unusual for a woman of that time—but in the tenth year of the W. C. T. U. she visited every state capital but two, all cities of ten thousand or more, and many towns of five thousand.

Frances Willard, with her natural gift of leadership, developed a marvelous ability as an organizer in the wide reach of the social order. Her widest field for organization was presented in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in 1874. Later, she founded the National Council of Women. She also served as corresponding secretary of the American Association. Now the world is planning the formation of such committees to celebrate the centenary of this great woman next year.

Next Sunday all pulpits should be decked with flowers honoring the birthday of this great woman, which is Sept. 28.

Being a lover of nature, one of the most beautiful fitting memorials to Frances Willard is the exquisite peony bearing her name which lends its beauty and fragrance to thousands of gardens every year. This lovely plant which was developed soon after Miss Willard had passed from the scene of earthly gardens, was given her name to memorialize her great love for growing things. Its beauty and perfection are, indeed, most happily symbolic of the life of the woman whose name it carries. A description of this plant is, "A perfectly formed flower that is found among the winning classes in every showroom. Very large blooms, often having a raised cup-shaped center enclosing golden stamens. Opens an exquisite bluish-white, with an occasional carmine touch, changing to pure white. Of good substance and a fine cut-flower variety."

This is a good technical description, but how much it leaves out! Comparatively few persons know that peonies are the largest double flowers that can be grown in gardens. Some blossoms will measure seven inches across. Such a bloom impresses anyone with its magnificence but that is not its only special. With all its size it has beauty and great variety of form, and often the greatest delicacy of petals. The peony is perfectly hardy. It will withstand the severest winters and its blossoms early enough to escape the inconvenience of summer's drought. It seems especially fitting to celebrate Miss Willard's Centenary with the peony which bears her name, for peony plants have been known to have bloomed for a hundred years.

To enjoy the blossoming of the Frances Willard peony in her Centenary year, it will be necessary to plant the roots this fall and this might be a fitting occasion for impressive ceremonies in many public places as a preparation for next year's Centenary celebration. The children would enjoy the planting on school grounds, city parks or other public grounds. Churches and colleges will be planting the peonies. Chautauqua grounds and camps honoring the most prominent woman speaker of the nineteenth century will find a suitable plot where Frances Willard peonies can flourish. Hospitals will wish to add the beauty of peonies in their gardens to the service given in her memory.

The W. C. T. U. county convention which will be held in the M. E. church in this city, Tuesday, Sept. 27, will honor the ninety-ninth anniversary of Miss Willard's birth, with a peony-planting ceremony as a part of the program.

FROM A MOTHER

Editor—Permit me to take exception to a statement published in a recent issue of the Telegraph, and credited to a state parole officer to the effect that it has been found that home conditions have caused about 99 per cent of the cases of delinquency which have resulted in boys being sent to St. Charles school. Not all mothers, who have been unfortunate enough to have their boys become wayward, frequent taverns or do the other things the state officer charges. I for one have always provided a real home for my children, have started them to Sunday school and church, and have done all any mother could possibly do to bring my children up properly.

WONDER IF THEY TEACH HONESTY
The news bulletin of the Public Administration Clearing House reports that universities in California Indiana and Wisconsin are joining public officials in plans for providing recruits for government careers. This is an experiment in preparation of students for spending their lives working for the government.

The way things look now, all graduates are headed in that direction. The class that hoisted the banner, "WPA, Here We Come," probably realizes its future more than some of us who always have expected the world of business and industry to absorb the workers year by year.

In charge of the government are people who aim to place the government in charge of all industry, transportation and labor. If they achieve their aims, we all will be working for the government. Wisconsin most of the time is committed to scholastic enterprises, so it may be expected that its educational institutions will lead the procession in preparing students to work for the government.

We wonder if they are teaching honesty as a requisite for a public official. We wonder if any emphasis is being placed on the desirability of a public official always making good on his word.

Time was when the existence of skulduggery in ward politics of great cities was recognized as always present, but always to be regretted. But when men were elevated to the governorship either they were able to go through the fiery tests of truth in political dealing, or they undertook to avoid degrading the office they were permitted by grace of the people to hold.

Unfortunately, we now are going through an era when the impressionable college students are likely to note that a man may receive public plaudits because he is "slick." They are likely to note that inconsistency, rather than consistency, is the jewel praised by the people.

They are likely to take note that the word can be given for one thing and the deed be another, without in the slightest degree impairing the heroism of the official so pledging and so avoiding.

How can we blame them if they come into voting age and take positions with the government with the observation that, in public office, dishonesty is the best policy?

What this country needs is a return to common honesty, but it will take half a century for it to live down its new reputation.

WHEN WARRIORS MADE THEIR OWN MUNITIONS
While not ignoring entirely the "promoters" who sell their big ideas to makers of munitions, we must not be carried away too far with the notion that there would be no war without conspiracies on the part of the manufacturers of arms.

To writers who are engaged in offering evidence against the munition makers and to readers who are led too easily by these writers, we recommend a reading or a re-reading of the history of Cortes' Conquest of Mexico.

There was a war that was a war, in which 60,000 Aztecs died defending Mexico City, American metropolis, against assault of the Spaniards, and 50,000 perished from famine and disease.

It was a war to spread the Christian religion upon the newly discovered continent, and how these Christians wished there were some munition makers besides the Indians who made the spearheads for them! They butchered and slashed and starved the savage enemy and established the Christian religion.

William H. Prescott, historian, summarizes as follows in his Conquest of Mexico:

"Whatever may be thought of the conquest in a moral view, regarded as a military achievement it must fill us with astonishment. That a handful of adventurers, indifferently armed and equipped, should have landed on the shores of a powerful empire inhabited by a fierce and warlike race, and, in defiance of the reiterated prohibitions of its sovereign, have forced their way into the interior; that they should have done this, without knowledge of the language or of the land, without chart or compass to guide them, without any idea of the difficulties they were to encounter, totally uncertain whether the next step might bring them on a hostile nation or on a desert, feeling their way along in the dark as it were; that though nearly overwhelmed by their first encounter with the inhabitants, they should have still pressed on to the capital of the empire, and, having reached it, thrown themselves unhesitatingly into the midst of their enemies; that, so far from being daunted by the extraordinary spectacle there exhibited of power and civilization, they should have been but the more confirmed in their original design; that they should have seized the monarch, have executed his ministers before the eyes of his subjects, and when driven forth with ruin from the gates, have gathered their scattered wreck together, and after a system of operations, pursued with consummate policy and daring, have succeeded in overturning the capital and establishing their sway over the country; that all this should have been so effected by a mere handful of indigent adventurers, is a fact little short of the miraculous—too startling for the probabilities demanded by fiction, and without a parallel in the pages of history.

Not a word about manufacturers of munitions!

GONGS TO PLATTERS
In the air over China there can probably be heard about this time an occasional convulsive rattling of chain mail. That would be the ancient warriors, who frightened their enemies by beating on gongs, sobbing up there with humiliation.

What pikers they were, compared to one Maxime Baze! The government of France, of which M. Baze is a citizen, is now toying with the idea of buying the rights to a Baze device which makes those ancient gongs sound like—well, ancient songs.

M. Baze would capture on phonograph records all the inconceivably nightmarish sounds of the battlefield—the agonized choruses of the wounded, the savage noise of rifle fire, the whine of shells—and play them back to the enemy amplified a thousandfold by a system of loud-speakers. M. Baze figures that a steady dose of this would play hob with the enemy morale no end.

You just can't get around it: the world has come a long way since gongs and firecrackers. If only somebody would think of a mechanical device now that could produce the original battlefield sounds without human assistance. That's what war has needed from the start—real mechanization—100 per cent—the human factor completely eliminated.

WASHINGTON—Neville Chamberlain will go down in history, either as the greatest diplomatic saviour or the greatest diplomatic bungler of our time.

It is too early as yet to say what the verdict will be, but consensus of opinion in diplomatic circles is that it may be the latter. Chamberlain had one great thing to go by in his political flight to Hitler's mountain-top time. If he could side-track Nazi military intentions and divert them into a maze of diplomatic conversations, then war might be postponed until the winter months and after.

On the other hand, Chamberlain had one great thing to lose—realization by Germany that the British are scared, so scared that they will not come to the aid of the Czechs and France.

This is what the Nazis are devoutly praying, and definite evidence of this was what they got from the Chamberlain trip. The natural interpretation was that Germany now was topdog in Europe, strong enough to make the British lion put its tail between its legs and plead on bended knee for peace.

British Vaccination
It is not an axiom of history that if Edward Grey had told the Germans flat-footedly in 1914 that Britain would come into any war, then the Kaiser never would have invaded Belgium.

Today, however, British belligerency is so discredited by Franco's sinking of 50 British ships, with hardly a protest from London, that Germany knows Britain will take almost anything lying down.

That is why Chamberlain would have had to talk really tough to Hitler to get anything across, and that is also why all reports from the Berchtesgaden conversations indicate that Hitler, not Chamberlain, was the man who talked tough. He is reported to have informed his British visitor that the Sudeten area was one for Germany, and Germany alone to settle, and he wanted no help from the rest of the world in settling it.

Alleged unfair treatment of the Sudeten Germans, of course, is only a Nazi excuse for attempting to lay hands on the long corridor of Czechoslovakia extending southeast to the wealth of Rumania and the Russian Ukraine.

And no matter what Chamberlain may work out with Hitler, it can only be a postponement of the Nazi determination to lay hands on that corridor. When this comes, it will mean war for both Czechoslovakia and Russia are sure to fight.

Note—Henry Adams, writing in 1899, said: "For the last generation, since 1865, Germany has been the great disturbing element of the world, and until its expansive force is decidedly exhausted it will neither political nor economic equilibrium possible."

Whatever the President may have thought privately about Farley's coolness toward the purge campaign, the warm personal relationship between them remains unchanged, as indicated by the following incident:

Farley was in New York, preparing to leave for a speaking engagement in the South, when the White House telephoned to ask him to stop off in Washington for a conference with the President. After their talk Roosevelt asked Jim what time his train was departing.

"I'm thinking of taking a plane," Jim said, "because I don't know whether I can make it by train."

Do me a favor, Jim," was the President's earnest reply. "Train. Things are too disturbed and unsettled to take even an outside chance of losing you. I need you around, Jim."

Not emerging from the war-clouded Cabinet meeting last Friday, Farley was asked by newsmen what he could tell them about the international situation. "Not much, boys," he answered crisply. "I'm having a long time keeping up with domestic affairs."

YOU'LL PROBABLY GET A TRACK RECORD

After a big automobile race the track officials announced that spectators who wished might drive their own cars around the one-mile track to get the feel of driving on a race track as fast as they wanted to without being arrested. Of course their turns were regulated so that there wouldn't be any cars close together and tires were inspected for safety. Cars were allowed on the track first. They all ran at top speed. One could cover a mile in one minute, a second in two minutes, a third in three minutes and the fourth in four minutes. Obviously they were of all ages and of all states of repair. How long would it be from the time they started together until all four crossed the starting line at the same time?

Answer to Question No. 1
1. In reading court trials one is forced to conclude that women stand by men vastly better than men stand by women. When a woman goes wrong her husband is often the first to condemn her, but when he is the culprit the newspaper usually states, "The wife said, 'I'll stand by you, Joe, through thick and thin.' A case reported by a social worker, of the wife-deserted whose wife washed and ironed his shirt so the scoundrel would make a good appearance in court, is only typical of woman's loyalty.

Answer to Question No. 2
2. An extensive research has shown there are two types of people—those who analyze and think their way through life and those who feel their way. The first is always searching for motives in other people, calculating the consequences of this or that course of action, even analyzing his friends for the effect they will have on him. The other just accepts whatever comes and is guided by hunches, impressions and emotions.

Answer to Question No. 3
3. In this respect man is in much the same position as the horse—what is left of him. In the 60s and 70s he had to get over being surprised and scared at a rider with an umbrella. Then came the top buggy, next the automobile and now it is the airplane. Same way with us humans. We have been surprised with the steam engine, telephone, X-ray, radio, relativity, can opener and the change from fur skirts to one piece bathing suits—until our surprises are just about paralyzed. Recently I sat with a group watching motion pictures of a scene two miles away, transmitted by television through brick walls—truly amazing—yet no one seemed much surprised.

The Characters
Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.
Ottile Wills, beautiful American heiress.

Yesterday: Geiss murders Henrietta Adams, and Ottile and I are locked in the secret room. Then we find the gun that killed O'Donnell.

Chapter 39
A Girl Vanishes
I took another look at the inert body on the floor. Beside it was a woman's handbag, and at sight of it I knew in a flash just what kind of a fool I had been.

I snatched it up and tore it open. There were keys there, as I had known there would be; the big latchkey of the Chateau la Vague, the Yale of Geiss's front door, and a smaller, queerly shaped bit of metal that I knew without telling would unlock our prison door and set us free.

I whooped with joy like a schoolboy and raced down the room to the farther door.

"Come on, Ottile," I yelled, and as she came, I fitted the key into the little hole and heard the welcome sound of the wards turning. One minute later we were dragging open the garden gate, staring into an outer world that we had hardly dared hope to see again.

The sun was high in the heavens. I rubbed my knuckles across my heavy lids, and as I did so, heard a familiar voice. "May I ask," said Hugo dryly, "if this has been an all-night party? Or were you merely sleeping off the effects?"

The girl had been clinging, half-dazed, to my arm, but at the sound of his voice she wrenched herself free and, running to him, flung herself on his breast, twining her arms round his neck.

"It's you!" she sobbed. "I knew you'd come, but oh, I've been so frightened! Hugo, I was so terribly frightened!"

He put his arms about her, awkwardly, like a man who is half-afraid, and then suddenly strained her to him and pressed his lips to her hair.

"Dearest," he said, very low, "Dearest, you're safe now. You're with me."

I stood there with my hands in my pockets, feeling slightly resentful, for when all was said and done, it was I that had done the dirty work, and he was getting the thanks. But after a minute he raised his head and grinned at me in a shamefaced way.

"Sorry, old man!" he said. "Unaccustomed as I am to public lovemaking, I forgot all about you for the moment!"

"Don't mind me!" I retorted bitterly. "I'm as long as you are like—but when you're through, it might be as well to get Ottile back to the hotel. Dunning must be throwing hysterics by now."

He looked suddenly conscience-stricken. "You're absolutely right!" he declared. "Actually, it's past eight already. Ottile, my dear, we'll have to get a move on, but first, tell me how you got here and what you've been doing. If I hadn't run into Geiss and heard that the last he'd seen of Archie was when he turned in a purposeful way up this street, I might have been searching for you till Doomsday. As it is, I was just pondering the best way of breaking into the villa."

"Fleuriot?" I echoed, startled. "What had he been up to, I wonder?"

"I don't know," said he, "but his car was inches thick with dust, and he looked as if he hadn't slept for a week. He asked me to tell you, though, that he would be calling your bluff shortly, whatever that may mean."

"Well," I said, "I'm ready when he is—but taking it by and large, we've certainly had a full night, and I, too, both had the same idea of breaking into Geiss's villa, and we met on his balcony. Following that, we witnessed Geiss murdering Henrietta Adams, and we've been locked in with her corpse for the rest of the night, the wine-shops were doing a brisk trade. I imagined it wouldn't be long before the fun became fast and furious; but the Croisette was still folded in an aristocratic emptiness, and when we entered the Carlton lounge, it was to find Dunning in solitary possession.

He was haggard, crumpled, and unshaven, and I felt a momentary pang of compunction that we had dallied so long before joining him; but after all, I reflected, he had known for some considerable time that the girl was safe, and could have made his own toilet, too, if he had wished. Even as the thought came to me, though, his greeting expelled it.

"Where is she?" he demanded sharply. "Holy smoke! I made sure you'd bring her along with you."

I gasped. "What the devil do you mean?" I demanded blankly. "We left her a couple of hours back and told her to let you know she was safe and well."

"She let me know all right," the big man answered bleakly. "Sent me a note saying she was all right and would see me and tell me all the news as soon as she'd cleaned up. But no word came, and when I went to see her, I found she'd never got to her room; all that greeted me was Cassandra Chubb, running around like a demented thing. The only consolation I had was that Cassandra had sense enough not to alarm the old man."

He broke off and wiped his wet forehead. "Gentlemen," he said solemnly. "Ottile Wills wrote me that letter, standing here in the vestibule, and stepped into the elevator to go to her own room, but she never got there, and from that moment to this there's not a soul in the hotel that's seen her again. I've asked 'em all; hall-porter, who saw her come in with you; reception clerk, who gave her paper to write her note; elevator boy who saw her get out at her own floor; and not one has set eyes on her since. She didn't come down again, either by the elevator or the stairs, and short of having a room-to-room search of the two hundred and fifty apartments in this hotel, I'm at my wits' end. All I could hope for was that she might have slipped out by some back exit to join you."

"She may have done that," I said doubtfully, but Hugo broke in sharply.

"Good God, man! She'd never do such a thing. She promised me to stay in her room, and I'm not disposed to doubt her word. She's been kidnapped, or worse by that devil Geiss. What are we waiting for?" he finished harshly. "Come on, Archie. We've got to see the police and have the town combed for her."

The Walnut Household Science club held their first meeting of the year on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Meda Pierson with Mrs. Gibson and Rosa Minier as assistant hostesses. Mrs. Lela Smith, the president, opened the meeting with the song, "When You and I Were Young Maggie." This was followed by the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Roll call was responded to by the 22 members with an early experience of home making which created much laughter. Mrs. Smith spoke of the Farmer's Institute to be held in Manlius on Oct. 7th and 8th. Dorothy Pierson gave a report of her work at the Nora Dunlap school during the state fair. Miss Pierson was a delegate from this club. This proved very interesting and she is to repeat it at the Institute. The program then followed which in reality was a parody on "School days." Irene Gonigam and Mildred

SOURCE OF ELMWOOD PARK SICKNESS IS SOUGHT

Citizens Join Scientists in Drive to Trace Ailment

Chicago, Sept. 21—(AP)—Men in the street joined men in white today in a drive to trace and stamp out the source of a mysterious ailment that in a week afflicted 104 persons, one fatally. While scientists toiled over their test tubes and beakers, examining all available clues, public spirited men and women volunteered information and services for a systematic collection of facts of the cases.

The outbreak became known last week after the death of 53-year-old Earl Bennisson, a veteran railroad man of Elmwood Park, a western suburb. By yesterday the cases numbered 54 in Elmwood Park, 47 in the northwest portion of Chicago and two in the nearby suburb of Oak Park. Most of those stricken were from modest, middle class homes in the same general neighborhood.

Symptoms of the ailment included diarrhea, vomiting, chills, headache or fever.

A week ago last night the six members of the Bennisson family sat down to a dinner of roast lamb, potatoes, vegetables and chocolate pastry. At about midnight, they began feeling ill.

Many Similar Cases

Most seriously afflicted were Bennisson, his wife, and a 20-year-old daughter. Bennisson appeared to be improving until Friday when he became violently ill and died as he was being removed to a hospital. Immediately thereafter a score of similar cases were reported.

Dr. James Moxon, Elmwood Park health officer, said he believed the outbreak "has run its course" and all the cases under his jurisdiction virtually recovered. Similar reports came from Chicago health authorities.

Residents of the area were warned to boil drinking water until the tests were finished. Physicians and chemists studied the possibility water had been contaminated and drunk or used in baking the pastry. Most of those on the Elmwood Park sick list told of eating chocolate pastry shortly before becoming ill.

Twenty-five Elmwood Park women volunteered to visit those stricken in the village to question them about likely causes and to search out any unreported cases. They and school authorities also were circulating 3,000 copies of a questionnaire asking a description of symptoms.

"Style pirates" have become so skillful at copying exclusive dress designs and flooding the market with them that dressmakers of London and Paris lose $2,000,000 annually in this way.

In England, books and rare manuscripts belonging to a man who died in 1872 still are being disposed of, and the sale is estimated to last another 30 or 40 years.

New flying giants now being built weigh 65,000 pounds fully loaded, and will be able to cross the continent with only one stop.

Let the Weather Man talk. Let the experts scoff. Youth goes fishing for the fun of it . . . in all kinds of weather . . . in all kinds of waters.

The man who has lost the spirit of youth is too busy with gloomy forecasts to gather bait, much less go fishing.

Men with the spirit of youth pioneered our America . . . men with vision and sturdy confidence. They found contentment in the thrill of action, knowing that success was never final and failure never fatal. It was courage that counted. Isn't opportunity in America today greater than it was in the days of our grateful forefathers? Good!

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

Dixon high meets the Rabs for the seventh time on Friday night with a record of five games won by Rockford and one by the locals. The games started with the first year of the Century when Rockford defeated North Dixon by a score of 18 to 0. In the next year, 1901, North Dixon went down under a 28 to 0 smothering, and in 1903 Rockford triumphed by a score of 11 to 0 over North Dixon. The meetings between the two teams were discontinued until 1935. In that year Rockford defeated Dixon by a score of 13 to 7. In the next year the tables were turned and the local team defeated the Rabs on a 12 to 7 count. Last season Rockford won, 26 to 0. Lindell's men are out to reap a harvest like the one of the good year of '36 and a smart line and aggressive backfield will take no "sass" from the Rabs.

According to word from the high school offices the grid game between the Dixon and Rockford lightweights is scheduled to begin at 6 o'clock Friday night at Beyer field in Rockford. The main event will probably get under way about 7:30 or 8:00 o'clock.

The annual Scout football game is near and the University of Illinois has extended an invitation to all Scouts to attend the Illinois-Ohio university football game at Champaign on Saturday afternoon. If thirty or more Girl Scouts or Boy Scouts register, a bus will be chartered to take the local young people to the game. The cost will be $3.25 for the round trip, not counting in meals. Registrations must be made not later than 3:30 Thursday afternoon. It will cost one dollar to register for the bus and this will be refunded if thirty scouts do not sign. Leaders of both Boy and Girl Scouts will also be admitted to the game without charge. Requirements for the game are Scout's registration cards and uniforms. Registrations may be made at the Chamber of Commerce, Scout headquarters.

Starting with the games set for October 1, seven guests pickers — one each week — will go to work trying to figure out who should win and why. These guests pickers are being lined-up, warned and given a crystal ball in which to study the future and their findings will be released each week. All are local fellas who are thought to know their stuff.

There's no one in these parts wishing to stick his neck out far enough this early in the season to be clipped off by making any football predictions. All local embarrassment is being held until next week and so Harry Grayson, NEA Service sports editor, is given the kick-off honors. Here are a few of his pickings for the opening dates: Grayson selects Southern California over Alabama by a score of 20 to 0; Purdue over Detroit, 7 to 0; Illinois over Ohio University, 14 to 0; Minnesota over Washington, 14 to 0. Where are the overwhelming scores of yesteryear which usually go into the 40-s this early in the season? Does that mean things are tougher all over the country this year?

Officials for the football games at Rockford Friday night will be Fred Gardner, Big Ten official of Rochelle, McLean of Elgin and Paul Harrison of DeKalb.

Richard Farnum McEntee, an Irishman of 5 feet 7 inches and tipping the scales at 150 pounds, is the new Rockford heavy-weight captain chosen this time to lead his men into the fray with Dixon on Friday night. McEntee plays at quarter and is one of 10 boys left from the original group of 13 lettermen counted upon for the 1938 season. Three were ineligible. The new leader was a member of Rockford's Big Seven conference basketball and football championship teams last year and will be eligible for the first semester of basketball next winter before graduating in February.

Court Asked to Okay Plan for Resuming North Shore Service

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Resumption of operations by the strike-bound Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad hinged largely today upon the Federal court's approval of a plan drafted by Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the road.

Sprague announced he would submit to the court tomorrow a request for permission to sign a contract with the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employees.

The electric line, running between Chicago and Milwaukee and serving a score of communities along the Lake Michigan shore, suspended operations August 16 when employees voted to strike in protest against a 15 percent wage cut.

A jurisdictional dispute between the Amalgamated union and two brotherhoods has been a major obstacle to settlement of the wage question. The Amalgamated held a contract with the railroad for 19 years prior to the strike. Sprague said in a report to be submitted to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson it was his opinion that operation of North Shore trains in and out of Chicago was contingent upon being manned by members of the Amalgamated.

A decision by the labor relations board on the question of collective bargaining rights has been delayed pending a determination by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the railroad's status under the railway labor act.

Dr. Eduard Jenny of Switzerland has ventured the opinion that babies are more likely to be born between 2 and 5 a. m. than at any other time of the day or night.

CLEVELAND AND BOSTON STIR UP ONLY INTERESTS

Second Place in American League Is Their Main Concern

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Even the Yankees' record losing streak can't stir up much interest since the New Yorkers have clinched the pennant. The fans won't be excited about the National League race until the teams are able to come out from under their umbrellas and play a few games. But in the meantime the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians are stirring up quite a lively pair of private battles.

Second place in the American League is their main stake and their leading representatives at the home plate, Jimmy Foxx and Earl Averill, are quite in the thick of the fight for the batting crown.

In addition to whatever prestige is involved, there's cash money in the scrap for all concerned. The difference between second and third place runs about $200 per man when their shares of the World Series pool are split up and, of course, a batting champion is in a favorable position in salary negotiations.

Red Sox Win Two

The Red Sox, returning to action yesterday after having had two straight doubleheaders washed out, regained a little lost ground by walloping the St. Louis Browns in both ends of a bargain bill, 12-8 and 7-2. The Indians took a single game from Washington 9-1. That left Boston one game ahead with about a dozen still to go. And the difference is where it counts most—the Indians have lost two more.

The only other game played saw the Yankees establish a new record for Joe McCarthy's managerial regime by losing their fifth straight game, a 5-4 decision to the Chicago White Sox. It was the first time since McCarthy took charge in 1931 they had dropped so many in a row.

The entire National League program again was rained out along with the Athletics-Detroit game in the American. It didn't make much difference in the senior circuit race this time, for the teams still can play the games off in doubleheaders if the rain stops today.

Pirates Ready for Action

Pittsburgh's Pirates still have a 3½ game lead over the Chicago Cubs and ought to be ready for a little action after two days of rest.

High spots of yesterday's games were the two seven-run innings the Red Sox staged. Trailing 7-5 going into the last inning of the opener, they belted Jim Walkup and Ed Cole for seven runs. Then they repeated the feat in the sixth of the eighth inning, nightcap as Foxx belted his 46th homer and a triple in the same inning. Hal Trosky smacked out three singles, Bruce Campbell drove in three runs and Denny Galehouse pitched a steady nine-hit game to give Cleveland its easy triumph.

The Yankees hitting was nothing to cheer about as Monte Stratton held them to eight blows, and Bump Hadley was bumped for eleven hits, four of them good for three runs in the seventh, before he retired from the mound.

DIXON TEAM IS SET FOR PLAY-OFF ON SUNDAY

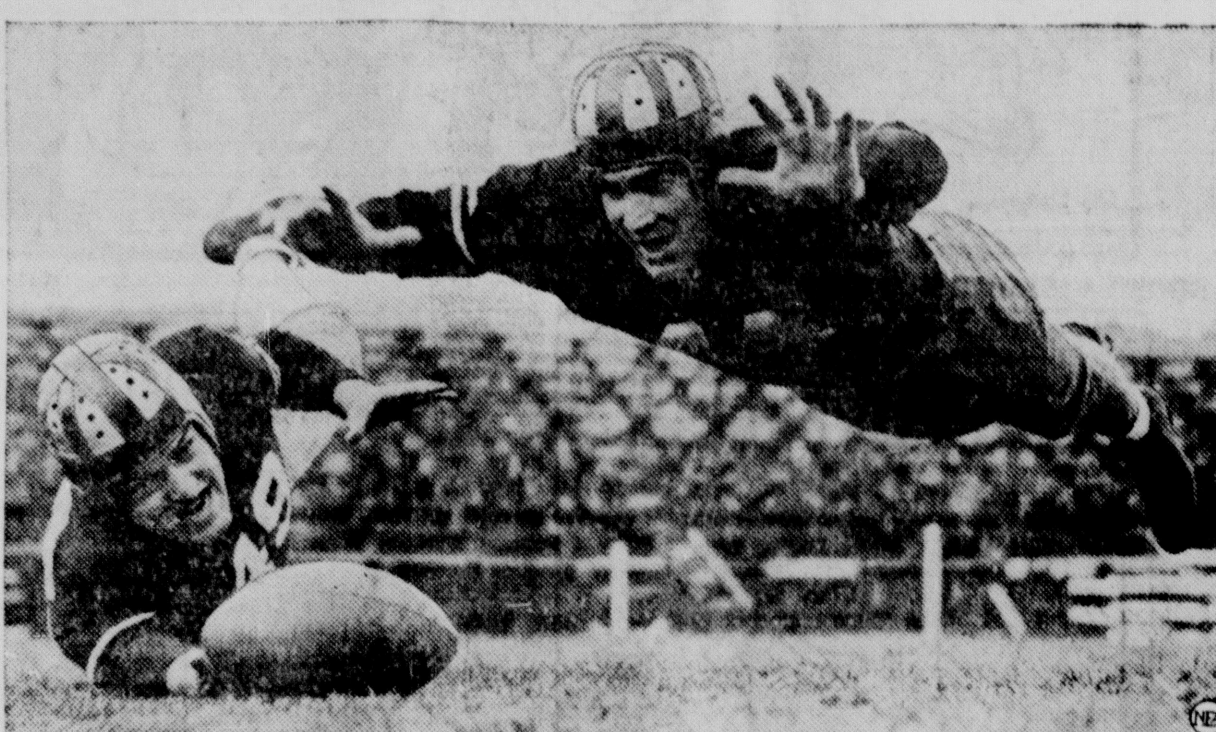

The Knacks are treading lightly today. The sun is shining and no one wants to do anything to upset Old Sol so that long-awaited game to decide the champions of the Illinois Baseball league may be played at West Brooklyn on Sunday afternoon.

The Dixon club is anxious to get this game over—and to win, for it means the crown of the league, and if it is deferred much longer, snow balls will be used instead of regulation apples.

It is reported that all the local players are in tip-top shape, but no one can deny that a two weeks of no baseball activity is not going to strengthen their chances. The Knacks will practice Saturday afternoon to get acquainted with the baseball they haven't touched for two weeks and get in some batting practice so that they can find that ball as it comes in across the plate, from Ray Knauer, the village's star hurler. Ole Prestegard and Windmiller will compose the battery for the Knacks and Knauer and Walters for West Brooklyn.

Plans are being made to handle the largest crowd of fans that West Brooklyn has ever known. The game will start at 2:30 and the umpires will be the Cone brothers of DeKalb.

A Flying Start

Fumble! And Loren Dilkes, left, and Gus Zitrides, tackle and guard, respectively, pounce on the ball as the Dartmouth College football squad starts practice at Hanover, N. H. Zitrides, outstanding lineman of the undefeated Big Green team of last fall, is Coach Earl Blaik's premier candidate for All-America honors.

PATTY MOWS 'EM DOWN TAKING ALL GOLFING HONORS

Red Head Displays Ruthless Style in Women's Matches

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The prize ring had its "killers"—notably Jack Dempsey. Now women's golf has one in harmless looking Patty Berg of Minneapolis.

Miss Berg, with her red hair and freckled face, and just 20 years old, looks tame enough until she starts swinging her clubs. Then she is ruthless. In a mighty blast of just 42 shots at Westmoreland Country club yesterday, Patty smothered Mrs. Myron Davy of Washington, D. C., 10 and 8, in as crushing a defeat as any women's national tournament has ever produced. She won ten straight holes.

That overwhelming victory overshadowed everything in the first round flight, including the defeat of the six time former champion, Glenna Collett Ware. It overshadowed the performance of Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill, N. C., the defending champion in eliminating the Canadian titleholder, Mrs. Eric Phillips of Lambton Mills, Ont. Mrs. Ware was swept to the sidelines by 18-year-old Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga.

As the field of 32 survivors got away on the second and third flights of two 18 hole rounds today, the Minneapolis red head, and Mrs. Page, 31-year-old housewife, were ranking favorites to wind up as finalists for the championship Saturday.

Miss Berg, who has won nine of the 12 tournaments in which she appeared this year, is more determined than ever to triumph over Mrs. Page who conquered her in the 1937 finals at Memphis. In the morning round Mrs. Page engages Helen Waterhouse, of Warwick, R. I., while Miss Berg plays Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I. The youthful Miss Kirby faces a mean test in Miss Marion Miley, slim brunette of Lexington, Ky., three times winner of the women's western title. Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, noted tournament star, plays Clarrie Tierman, Baltray, Ireland, champion of the Irish Free State.

By nightfall the cast will be pruned down to just eight competitors for the quarter-final round tomorrow.

SMALLER COLLEGE TEAMS TO GET ON WAGON SATURDAY

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Illinois State Normal and Elmhurst will set off their 1938 football seasons and the Illinois intercollegiate conference race with the same opening blast this week as state colleges swing into action.

The Saturday contest is the only title battle on the week's card of 11 games, which will involve seven schools from the intercollegiate and the same number from the Illinois college conference. All will be making their debuts except Monmouth. The Scots opened their season last week with a 20 to 0 triumph over Burlington (Ia.) junior college.

State Normal, undefeated but tied in conference play last year, is a leading contender for the 1938 crown, but may find unexpected opposition at Elmhurst.

Bradley, which lost but two regulars from its 1937 championship team, is the ranking favorite in the Illinois college league. The Peoria eleven, boasting probably the strongest line Coach A. J. Robertson has had in his 18 years

Economist Says Nazis Compelled to Action

Chicago.—(AP)—Describing Germany as a "desperately bankrupt nation," Dr. Melchior Palyi, University of Chicago economist and former economist for Berlin's Deutsche bank, said Chancellor Hitler was under "virtual compulsion" to take some immediate action in central Europe, in an address at a Chicago Association of Credit Men's dinner last night.

Dr. Palyi said Germany was in dire need of raw materials and capital and described a rapid decline of exports, reduced efficiency of labor, and reduced living standards as other economic factors which Germany must face.

TO PRINT SERIES FOR PRESERVING OF AMERICANISM

Chicago Organization to Distribute Folders Next Week

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 21.—The first of a series of ten articles described as a means "by which every American can participate personally in the fight to preserve the fundamentals of the American system" will be distributed next week by the national, non-partisan, patriotic "America, Wake Up!" crusade of the Union League Club of Chicago.

The series is intended, according to its sponsors, to supply uncolored factual material about "new governmental acts and trends in the light of sound practices and traditions of the past."

"Let no one betray his country by casting an ignorant vote," says a paragraph in the final folder. "Give him the facts."

The folders will be printed into the millions, according to estimates of Union League Club of officers, and will be distributed first to the club's nation-wide membership and later to outside groups and individuals.

The crusade, in a statement, invited participation by "all the great body of unorganized, good Americans whose efforts, tied together in a single movement, can turn us back to American principles."

General Heading

Running under the general heading of "Horse and Buggy Sense," the series carries the following titles:

"You... and Your Job," "You... and Your Wages," "You... and Prices," "You... and Taxes," "You... and Security," "You... and the Spenders," "You... and Your Rights," "You... and Government," "You... and Your Neighbors," "You... and Your Duty."

A letter accompanying sample sets of the folders to members says that national conditions "sharply demand action by every patriotic thinker who wants to help win a moral victory in behalf of the fundamentals of our government."

"This can be best accomplished," the letter continues, "by re-electing present independent, patriotic members of the Senate and House of Representatives loyal to the American system and new candidates with similar qualifications, irrespective of party affiliation."

The article on "Taxes" shows that the enormous tax burden occasioned by present spending policies falls most heavily upon people with small incomes and acts as a two-edged sword by killing off jobs. Government figures are presented to show that if all the net reportable income of every citizen reporting $5,000 a year or more were seized by government, and they were left without any income at all, the amount seized would be more than a billion and a half dollars short of appropriations and the government would have to get that sum from low-income earners.

Income Taxes

Income taxes, both personal and corporate, are shown to account for only 15 per cent of total taxes, the remaining 85 per cent coming from a variety of sources, mostly hidden, and many heavy inroads into thin pocket books.

Showing that most of the Social Security taxes are being spent for general purposes as they come in, the article on "Security" reveals the possibility that in a future time of stress, these billions might have to be collected over again.

"The only security we can depend on," says the article, "is a job in productive work. That's the American way and in all history it's the only way that ever really worked."

The article on "Spenders" asserts that "even if you had a steady job all last year, you in effect got real wages for only nine months of it. Three solid months of your labor went to pay off what the money spenders took for 'governing' you."

In the article on "Neighbors," voters are urged to find people they can team with "in getting America off its spending spree... back on a free, safe, honest, American course."

OBITUARY.

Martha Jane Prentice, daughter of Merritt and Mary Jane McBride Morse, was born in Willow Creek township on April 26, 1860, and passed away at the home of her son, Harry, Sept. 16, 1938.

She was married to James Prentice in 1884, who passed away July 10, 1913. Shortly after her husband's death she went to live with her son Harry and his wife, who have been very devoted to her all these years.

For several years she has been very frail, and for many weeks at a time would be confined to her bed or the home, during which time both Harry and his wife have been untiring in caring for her.

Mrs. Prentice has lived in this vicinity all her life except for a short period of time in Aurora.

She united with the Paw Paw Baptist church in 1889 and has been a faithful member and worker as long as health would permit. She was a member of the Missionary Circle for twenty-five years, a member of the Mite Society for a number of years.

Much of her life has been spent in the service of others. She leaves to mourn her death a son Harry Prentice of Paw Paw and his wife Pearl and ten grandchildren, Mrs. Edith Linden, James and Esther Prentice, Mrs. Ruth Withrow, Mrs. Ethel McLaughlin, Mrs. Neva Breese, Miss Dorothy, Milo, Earl and Raymond Prentice; also two great grandchildren, as well as many friends.

One son, Lyle, passed away July 8, 1927, and an only sister, Carrie, passed away several years ago.

Funeral services were held on Sunday at the Baptist church with Rev. Herman Meyer in charge of the services. Burial was in Wyoming cemetery. The pallbearers were Ben Sanford, Frank Rogers, Glenn Berry, George Moore, Henry Ketsch and Benton Tyreman.

O'CONNOR FIRST, ONLY VICTIM OF PURGE ATTEMPTS

New York Congressman's Defeat Gives Joy to New Dealers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The defeat of Rep. John O'Connor for Democratic renomination in New York gave President Roosevelt today his first and only victory in his personal campaign against four Democratic legislators.

Roosevelt's sole triumph was not complete, however, because O'Connor will be on the November ballot, having won the Republican nomination by 1,900 over Allen W. Dulles.

The president tried and failed previously to prevent the return of three Democratic senators whom he classed as conservatives—George of Georgia, Smith of South Carolina and Tydings of Maryland.

O'Connor lost the Democratic nomination for the seat he has held since 1923 to James H. Fay, New Dealer who narrowly missed defeating him four years ago. The complete vote gave Fay 8,352 and O'Connor 7,799.

May Ask Recount

O'Connor, chairman of the powerful house rules committee, attributed his defeat to election "dishonesty" and hinted he would seek a recount.

Regardless of the outcome of such a move, however, he would have to meet Fay in November because the latter won the American Labor party's nomination without opposition.

The Fay-O'Connor contest was the only one in four statewide primaries yesterday which had a national aspect.

The Massachusetts Democratic primary witnessed a triumphant comeback by former Governor James M. Curley who won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from Gov. Charles F. Hurley. Curley had accused the governor of having failed to cooperate with the New Deal.

Curley, silver-haired, silver-tongued veteran of Bay State political wars, will meet Leverett Saltonstall, former speaker of the state legislature, in the general election. Saltonstall won the Republican nomination in a landslide which gave him almost three times as many votes as his three opponents combined.

Barbour Easy Victor

Former Senator W. Warren Barbour was an easy winner of the Republican senatorial nomination in New Jersey, defeating George O. Pullen of Trenton, Townsend plan advocate, and C. Dan Coskey, Jersey City engineer.

William H. J. Ely, former New Jersey works progress administrator, won the Democratic senatorial nomination without opposition. Senator John Milton did not seek another term.

Wisconsin Progressives put

Gov. Philip LaFollette far out in front in his campaign for a fourth-term nomination. Despite efforts by some politicians to consolidate the LaFollette opposition, Robert K. Henry, fusion candidate, trailed his Republican opponent but was ahead in the Democratic gubernatorial contest.

In the Wisconsin contests for senatorial nominations, Rep. Thomas Amlie trailed Herman L. Ekern on the Progressive ticket and Alexander Wiley led a field of six for the Republican designation. Senator F. Ryan Duffy was unopposed for Democratic renomination.

G. O. P. Vote Biggest

Wisconsin Republicans led in total votes for the first time since the LaFollette group organized the separate Progressive party in 1934.

Except for New York's two senate seats, its governorship and a small number of house seats in other states, the major parties' lineups for the general election were completed by yesterday's balloting. The remaining nominations will be made by conventions.

Both New York senatorial seats are at stake this year because Senator Wagner's term expires and the death of Senator Copeland left a vacancy.

NEW DEALERS JUBILANT

Washington, Sept. 21—(AP)—New Dealers were jubilant today over the defeat of Rep. John O'Connor of New York for Democratic renomination, for they contended his case was the most important of President Roosevelt's four attempts to unseat "conservative" lawmakers.

They based this argument on the fact that O'Connor is chairman of the house rules committee, which decides whether major legislation is to have right-of-way. The post of chairman is regarded on Capitol Hill as ranking in authority just below speaker and majority floor leader.
